Online writing and research modules teach students the research process with scaffolded assignments that help build their research paper over an entire semester.

Modules can be referenced throughout the semester as an aid for instructors to remind students of skills needed for effective research.